engage them to draw up con racts when machines are sold on the plan. No matter how bright the agent's prospects may seem, a machine is not in order to accomplish that much depends on the skill, efficiency and personality of the teacher. One teacher writes of her experience among New York down town people in this way:

"I shall never forget my first experi nce. If any woman is anxious to get a practical knowledge of human nature my advice is to take a situation as teacher on the sewing machine in an installment district. Because I resented one customer's impertinent and irrele vant questions she called me a crank and an old maid all in one afternoon. A colleague informed me that the customer had it 'in for me,' and that she wouldn't keep the machine if the company machine her a present of it. 'All right; we'll see, I said. When I went to the woman'r house the next day she was crosser than two sticks, and she concluded her vituperation by ordering me and the machine buying everything on the installment plan. She would buy the earth that way if it were for sale and, if one would give her plenty of time to pay for it. She would 'close this week,' only she has to meet the payments on some aliverware. When the next week came her excuse was that she had to make a payment on a bronze clock. Her husband was the one person who didn't know anything about the debts she contracted. I once leased a machine to a woman who told me after I gave her the second lesson that she was coming up to the office to pay the full cash for it. Her husband, she said, gave her the money. Like most men he objected to the installment plan. The next time I called to instruct her she astonished me by saying she had changed her mind about paying cash for Every man who goes to Corea should be, or should get, married. Every un-married man is considered a boy, though he should live to be 100. No matter what his age, he follows in position the youngest of the married men, despite the fact, perhaps, of having lived years enough to be their father. The only parallel to this in America is in our poli-tics, wherein every man active in the tics, wherein every man active in the profession is a "b'hoy," even if he be as gray as Gen.
